THE PRODUCTS AND THE TEAM AT SALIENT STILLS

VFPro & VFSource were created to provide law enforcement faster, more intuitive, remarkably easy video forensics tools that are as agile as you need, as complete as you want them to be. Working with law enforcement and government agencies worldwide, our team works hard to provide the easiest, fastest most effective solution available today.

This is our team:

Laura Teodosio – Chief Executive Officer

Laura has over 18 years experience designing and building innovative software solutions involving images, media and information. As one of the founders of Salient Stills, she blended her knowledge of media, video and software to conceive key features and original algorithms for VideoFOCUS and continues her role in quality assurance, with innovations that ensure the software meets the changing demands of users in each market, taking every opportunity to elaborate on the possibilities the product delivers.

Jeff Hunter – Chief Technology Officer

Jeff brings his 15 years of experience in the development of state-of-the-art of image and video processing systems to Salient Stills. Taking advantage of an extensive background in R&D and contract and product engineering, Jeff is the chief surveyor of all contract and product development initiatives. Prior to his work with Salient Stills, Jeff headed software development for security and surveillance product company Millivision LLC. While there, he was responsible for all image and video related software development, spearheading a great number of federally funded imaging research initiatives.
